

Reacting to a Pandemic (or any disaster) and being prepared for the next

Presented by:

Dawn Sericati, Assistant Director IT, Washington County

Shawn Smith, CIO, Kenosha County

Thank you for joining us, we are...

Dawn Sericati

- Assistant Director, Washington County
- U.S. Army Veteran
- MS Organizational Leadership
- Dedicated IT Professional

Shawn Smith

- CIO, Kenosha County
- U.S. Air Force Veteran
- Project Management Professional (PMP)
- MBA
- Dedicated IT Professional

What are we really talking about?

How did your organization react to the Pandemic?

What did you learn?

How did you manage
through change?

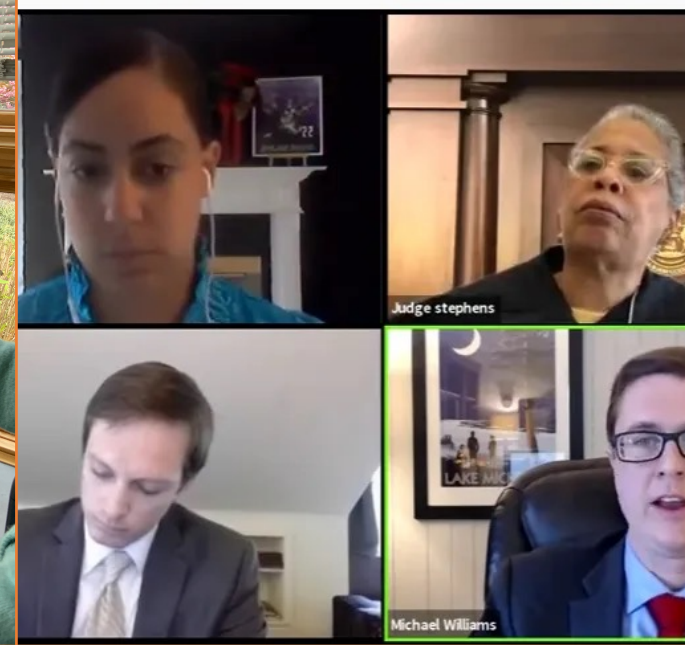

Planning for the next
event; local,
regional, national, or internationally

Expecting the Unexpected

Supporting the constituency and organization through challenging times

How did your organization and community react?

- Keeping people connected
- Keep the business running, regardless of location
- Protecting those who continued in the office

March 2020

April 2020

What did you learn?

How did you manage through the change?

top The Washington Post

Fast food chains close dining rooms amid protracted labor ...

For many fast-food workers, the coronavirus pandemic opened new and ... a year as of May 2020, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

3 days ago

CNBC

UK car production plummets to lowest level since 1956 amid chip shortage, worker absences

A global semiconductor shortage, factory shutdowns and worker ... U.K. factories is up 18.3% year-to-date compared to 2020, when Covid...

3 weeks ago

CNBC

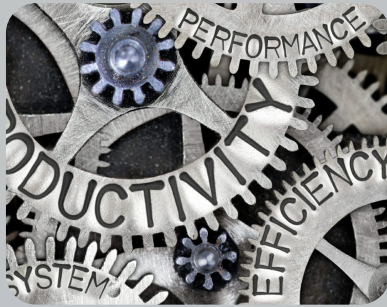

The global chip shortage is starting to hit the smartphone industry

Semiconductors have been in short supply this year, due to a number of ... Demand for smartphones waned in 2020 as the coronavirus pandemic...

1 month ago

Planning for the next event; local, regional, national, or internationally

Operational Efficiency

Services are Flexible and can be provided in a variety of ways

Plan and Build for the surge when possible

Support your staff and community

COOP / COG
Planning

Expect the Unexpected

Supporting the constituency and organization through challenging times

Plan ahead

Provide flexibility and react quickly

Share essential information

Unconventional solutions

Be flexible, except where you aren't

Questions